METHODOLOGY

The data collected for August 2016 has been obtained from the local newspapers the “South Gippsland Sentinel – Times” and the “Phillip Island and San Remo Advertiser” published in August. The “Sentinel” is published on Tuesdays or Wednesdays and the “Advertiser” on Wednesdays. Some of the job advertisements appear in both papers. As most job advertisements appear in the “Sentinel”, any duplicate advertisements have been noted from the positions advertised in the “Advertiser”. amjproject statistical counts have been adjusted to remove duplications and repeat advertisements.

The “South Gippsland Sentinel – Times” covers Bass Coast Shire and South Gippsland Shire and also receives job advertisements from other neighbouring Shires. Not all job locations are stated.

As some months may have five weeks of job advertisements one year and four in others, a straight comparison of monthly figures can be misleading. To clarify this, the average number of jobs per week within each month has been used where required.

The job advertisements counted have been sorted into twenty two (22) categories showing which industry sector they represent and are detailed on a monthly basis.

HISTORICAL DATA

Data for the financial years ending June 2010 through June 2017 was counted by amjproject from the “South Gippsland Sentinel – Times” and the “Phillip Island and San Remo Advertiser” specifically for the Bass Coast Shire.

In the absence of similarly detailed historical data directly relevant to the Bass Coast Shire being available, the historic data used for the financial year end June 2001 and 2006 - 2009 was been obtained from Gippsland Research and Information Service (GRIS) “Weekly Job Advertisements”. It should be noted that these figures show the number of job advertisements placed, not the number of advertised jobs. Repeat advertisements would therefore be counted and advertisements with more than one position would not be reflected in these figures. Caution should therefore be made when using this data. Although the figures are not a direct comparison to those counted from both the local papers, it is possible to observe general trends.

It is not possible to obtain information on which job categories the positions relate from this historical information.

The following chart details, where known, which jobs were located in the Bass Coast Shire. Not all vacancies state their location and others are from neighbouring Shires. All job advertisements have been included regardless of location, based on the premise that the region acts as a cohesive workforce and thus gives a more accurate picture of work opportunities for people living within the Bass Coast Shire.
